DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-16 and 20-28, drawn to a method, classified in class 156, subclass 272.2.
- II. Claims 17-19, drawn to a formulation, classified in class 525.
- III. Claims 29-31, drawn to a structure, classified in class 438.

Inventions II and I are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product. See MPEP § 806.05(h). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product such as curing the partially curing the formulation by treating the formulation with radiation but not treating with heat.

Inventions I and III are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make another and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process such as curing a non-cationically curable composition.

Art Unit: 1733

Inventions III and II are related as product and composition to be used in the method of making the product. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the composition to be used in the method of making the product can be used in another and materially different product, or (2) the product as claimed can be made with another composition. In the instant case the composition to be used in the method of making the product can be used in another and materially different product such as bonding two substrates together, wherein neither substrate comprises an electronic device.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Additionally, this application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species:

Species A: wherein a thermal initiator and a photoinitiator are both acids.

Species B: wherein a thermal initiator and a photoinitiator are both bases.

If applicant elects Species A, applicant must further elect between the following sub-species:

Sub-Species A1: wherein the photoinitiator consists of onium salts

Sub-Species A2: wherein the photoinitiator consists of photodecomposable organosilanes

Sub-Species A3: wherein the photoinitiator consists of iron arene compounds.

The species are independent or distinct because the species are mutually exclusive from each other.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, none of the claims are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).
